The New York Herato was founded by James Gordon Bennett in 1835. It ren ained the sole property of its founder until his death, in 1872, when his son, also James Gordon Bennett, succeeded to the ownership of the paper, which remained in his hands until his death, in 1918. The Herato became the property of Frank A. Munsey, its present owner, in 1920.

The House Heeds the President.

The House of Representatives has very promptly and sensibly yielded to the wish of the American people, as expressed in President HARDING's etter to Representative Longworth, end has made appropriation not for 67,000 men in the navy but for the necessary 86,000.

President HARDING expressed the truth very mildly when he said that the country would be disappointed if the navy personnel was cut to less than 86,000. With such a dismantling of the navy and abandonment of the 5-5-3 basis of the conference treaty as would be compelled by the Appropriation Committee's pro posed personnel of 67,000 the country would be more than disappointed. The country would be thoroughly disgusted and deeply disturbed.

The American public agrees with the President that every reasonable and safe economy should be practiced by Congress and the Adminis he American public tells it that the country always must carry insurance against the possibility of war so long their battleships and other war machines to our incomparable national the force. interests.
